Subject: Proposal Letter to the Asian Paints to renew the sponsorship for the upcoming Kathmandu- Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) on September 13, 14 2025

Dear Sir,
Greetings from Kalinga Literary Festival!

Thanks for supporting the Annual Kathmandu- Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) since 2022. Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) is one of the leading Literary festivals in World from India. From 2022 Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) organizing Kathmandu edition in Nepal capital city. We would like Asian Paints to sponsor of the 4th Edition of the Kathmandu KLF.

4th Kathmandu- Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) will be held on September 13,14, 2025, at Kathmandu. Jeewan Jyoti Digital Care from Nepal in association with Kalinga Literary Festival join hand for Kathmandu KLF Edition to celebrate the spirit of Lord Shiva and Gautama Buddha in the context of Nepal-India literary ties. The summit will focus on the glorious traditions of Nepal.

Kathmandu Kalinga Literary Festival will showcase literature, music, dance, poetry and other art forms. It will be a lifetime experience for the lovers of Music, Dance, art, poetry and literature. The festival will celebrate the long-standing ties between Nepal and India in the context of the emerging global cultures. Half of the speakers/ performers will be from Nepal. The rest will be from India and other countries of South Asia.

Background Note

Nepal has been a center of pilgrimage and cultural destination for seekers around the world. This divine land on the foothills of the mighty Himalayas has attracted mystics, yogis, adventurers and nature lovers for millennia. People of Nepal are known for their simplicity and bravery. The land has a rich heritage and has enjoyed a lasting relationship with India. The Nepal-India Literary Summit proposes to build upon these strengths and celebrate the civilizational contact between the two great countries.

Central theme of the festival is "Beyond Borders: South Asian Literature in a Changing World"

South Asia is a region of profound literary richness, deeply rooted in centuries of storytelling, oral traditions, and written texts that have shaped the global literary landscape. From the epics of Mahabharata and Ramayana to the contemporary narratives of diasporic authors, South Asian literature has consistently redefined itself in response to socio-political transformations.

In the 21st century, South Asian voices have emerged as powerful agents of change, addressing crucial issues that transcend national boundaries. The theme for Kathmandu Kalinga Literary Festival 2025, Beyond Borders: South Asian Literature in a Changing World, seeks to explore how writers, poets, and intellectuals from the region are contributing to global conversations on identity, social engagement, climate action, economic development, cultural evolution, inclusion, and spirituality.

Key Themes of the Festival

Identity and Diaspora: Navigating the Self in a Globalized World

In an era of migration and transnational experiences, South Asian literature provides a crucial lens into identity formation. Whether through themes of exile, nostalgia, or hybrid cultures, writers articulate the complexities of belonging and the negotiation of multiple identities across geographies.

Literature as a Catalyst for Social Engagement

South Asian literary traditions have historically been at the forefront of social change. From Rabindranath Tagore to Arundhati Roy, writers have used literature to critique oppression, advocate for marginalized communities, and reimagine equitable societies. This theme will highlight how literature remains a medium for activism, resistance, and reform in contemporary times.

Climate Action and Environmental Narratives

With South Asia being one of the most climate-vulnerable regions in the world, literature has become a crucial tool in fostering environmental consciousness. Writers are weaving ecological concerns into their storytelling, addressing sustainability, displacement due to environmental disasters, and the philosophy of co-existence with nature.

Economic Development and Literary Representation

Economic upheavals, labor migrations, and social mobility have deeply influenced the narratives emerging from South Asia. This segment will explore how literature reflects and critiques economic transformations, the aspirations of new generations, and the consequences of economic disparity.

Cultural Evolution and the Reimagining of Traditions

South Asia's literary landscape is witnessing a resurgence of interest in folklore, mythology, and historical fiction. Writers are engaging with ancient texts and oral traditions while reinterpreting them in contemporary contexts. How is literature bringing the past and present? What role does technology play in preserving cultural narratives?

Inclusion, Diversity, and the Power of Representation

Literature has the power to dismantle stereotypes and provide a voice to the underrepresented. Whether it is gender inclusivity, LGBTQ+ narratives, or the representation of indigenous communities, South Asian writers are shaping discourses on equality and justice. This segment will explore literature's role in advocating for a more inclusive society.

The festival will celebrate the long-standing ties between Nepal and India in the context of the emerging global cultures. Half of the speakers/performers will be from Nepal. The rest will be from India and other countries of South Asia.

Spirituality and Literature: Seeking Meaning in a Chaotic World

From the philosophical verses of Rumi and Kabir to contemporary spiritual narratives, South Asian literature has been deeply intertwined with the quest for meaning and inner peace. In an age of uncertainty and rapid change, how does literature provide solace, introspection, and wisdom?

Format and Engagements

Kathmandu KLF 2025 will bring together established authors, emerging voices, academics, and literary enthusiasts from across South Asia and beyond. The festival will include:

Panel Discussions & Keynote Talks – Featuring prominent thinkers, writers, and commentators discussing the core themes.

Poetry Readings & Performances – Showcasing the power of verse in shaping consciousness.

Book Launches & Author Interactions – A platform for new and established writers to share their works.

Workshops & Masterclasses – Engaging sessions on writing, translation, and publishing.

South Asian Literary Awards & Recognitions – Celebrating the contributions of authors in shaping the region's literary identity.

Cross-Border Collaborations – Engaging with international literary festivals and networks to foster global dialogue.

Broader Objectives of the Festival

- To engage with historical literary traditions/ genres to foster mutual learning.
- To create an Asian and global level platform for emerging art forms including literatures.
- To inspire and train young and aspiring Nepali authors to become torch bearers of literary traditions.
- To encourage literature dialogue with the policy makers, activists, artists and leaders.
- To highlight the rich legacy of Nepali language, literature and cultures and promote Kathmandu city as a focal point of new creative expressions.
- To center stage the need for active cultural synergy among the locals and the global.
- To create a platform for artistes from different creative fields to interact with each other and share their work among themselves and with their readers/audiences.

We plan to celebrate, among other aspects, theme of Shiv and Buddha Tatwa and its contribution to South Asia and global literary movements and traditions. The festival will have panel discussions on literature, Art, Culture, History, and showcase artistic traditions like the idea of the Shiv Tatwa, the songs of Meera Bai, Akka Mahadevi, Andal, Lalded, the Vaishnava poets from Nepal and India, in addition to the world of Nepalese and Indian art and music
